Sugar Cards Show Over 5,000 Here

Early Return To Normal Peacetime Supply Of Sweets Indicated By WPB

Applications filed for sugar ration books in Sierra Madre indicate a population of over 5,000, according to Shelby A. Cowart, chairman of the local rationing board. Mr. Cowart states that between 3 and 4 hundred books have been issued since the first rationing sign up in May. However exact figures on Sierra Madre's population will not be available through the board until rationing cards are returned from the district center at Monrovia.

During June 7707 pounds of sugar were approved for canning purposes only, indicating that Sierra Madre's 2000 families are stocking their cupboards with fruit for the winter months.

According to a recent statement from the War Production Board an estimated 50 pounds of sugar will be available for each person in the nation during the next six months. This admission that normal peace time sugar consumption is possible came about this week when it was indicated that a permanent bonus of a pound of sugar per person every three weeks may be established.

This bonus, now in effect for the six weeks period beginning July 10, will give each person an extra two pounds in addition to the regulation half pound per week.

Mr. Cowart announced yesterday that the board has taken up its permanent location in the city hall. The office is located in the small room to the east, at the head of the stairs and will be open each Friday from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. for all rationing.

Complete Calendar For School Year

Term calendar for the Sierra Madre grammar school year just completed reveals that school will open here Sept. 14 and close June 18.

First fall holiday calls for recess of school November 11, Armistice Day. Thanksgiving holidays will return to the traditional last Thursday of November and the following Friday. Christmas vacation will begin December 21 and continue through January 2.

Early spring holidays will fall on Feb. 12 and 22, birth anniversaries of Lincoln and Washington. School will close for the Easter vacation April 19 and reconvene April 23, while the final school holiday will be May 30, Memorial Day.

Term calendar for St. Rita's school has not been made up.

Coordinate Work Of Defense Council And Red Cross

To lessen the load of community service work which Dr. W. B. Heagerty has been carrying as Red Cross disaster chairman and chief of the medical division of the Defense Council, Joseph S. Weber has been appointed to take over the chairmanship of the Red Cross disaster committee on the request of Dr. Heagerty.

To further facilitate coordination between the Red Cross and Civilian Defense Council, Mr. Weber has called a meeting between C. W. Jones, Red Cross chairman, Dr. Heagerty, Mayor Thomas Schwartz and all sub chairmen on food, canteen, clothing, shelter and housing.

WOMEN MUST SOON CARRY ON CIVILIAN DEFENSE WORK NOW PERFORMED BY MEN

By Patricia Corley

It looks as though it's going to be up to the women.

That women will soon have to take over the majority of civilian defense jobs in California was forecast today by Mrs. Hazel Schnabel of Sacramento, administrative aide of the State Council of Defense.

Recent announcement of Paul McNutt, chairman of Washington's War Manpower commission, that before the first of the year one out of every two men will be contributing in some measure to the war effort, means but one thing: it will be up to the women to carry the brunt of civilian defense on the home front.

In England, Mrs. Schnabel has been most severely felt.

US Don't Want City's Land Purchase

Uncle Sam doesn't want the 160-acre tract of watershed in the vicinity of Orchard Camp recently acquired by the City of Sierra Madre. Through Forest Supervisor Wm. Mendenhall the Department of Agriculture this week returned an option on the land given the government by the city. There was no accompanying explanation of the refusal to execute the option.

Officer To Train Fire Fighters

Udell Appointed To Recruit Men For New Civilian Defense Unit

Arthur Udell, local police officer and former CCC camp director, has been appointed chief of the Sierra Madre Forest Fire Fighters Service Auxiliary by Mayor Thomas Schwartz, and will begin a campaign to recruit men for this work immediately.

Recognizing that "forest fires could cause as much damage and could hamper the war effort just as seriously as direct enemy bombs, that they could disrupt transportation and communication facilities, impede war industry by destroying the resources so imperatively needed and damage power lines and aqueducts," James M. Landis has authorized the establishment of the auxiliary under the Office of Civilian Defense.

Mr. Udell who is ideally fitted to organize and train forest fire fighters through his long association with CCC work in the Angeles Forest, will seek to enroll men who have not already volunteered and been trained in the various protective services of the U.S. Citizens Defense Corps. It is being emphasized by directors of the OGD that "air raids and forest fires may occur simultaneously and that it is, therefore, of primary importance that every effort be made to assist in the enrollment of forest fire fighters without depleting the Citizens Defense Corps."

Participating in the program will be the U.S. Forest Service and the State forestry department which will direct operation of the fire fighting groups on forest lands under their respective jurisdiction.

Volunteers for the Forest Fire Fighters Service Auxiliary will serve without compensation, but "subsistence will be furnished and compensation for injury provided according to the standard practice of the forest fire fighting agency involved."

Pending the development of any special means of identification the local defense council will include members of the auxiliary in the Civilian Defense Auxiliary group so that members may be furnished with identification cards, arm bands and automobile plates as a means of facilitating movement in an emergency.

Prospective volunteers are asked by Mayor Schwartz to contact Mr. Udell through the police department.

Hitchcock New Head Of School Board

Edwin Ward retired as president of the Sierra Madre school board in favor of Everett E. Hitchcock at an organization meeting of the board last night. Mr. Hitchcock is serving his third term as a member. Mr. Ward was re-elected for another term last month. He has served as president for several years. Mrs. E. L. Hinkley, third member, was re-elected secretary last night.

pointed out, 80 percent of the civilian defense jobs are held by women.

Women are filling more and more volunteer posts as the men are called to the colors, go into war production work or agriculture.

Within the next several months, 65 per cent of California's wage earners will be engaged in work contributing to the war effort. This figure, which includes both men and women, was reported to the State Council of Defense by state and Federal statisticians. Since the great majority of this percentage, of course, will be men, it will leave many gaps in defense council plans, especially in the small towns, where the exodus of men to defense areas has been most severely felt.

Board Gives Ration Chief A New Car

Priests At Passionist Monastery Also Awarded Machines By Local Board

State Rationer Paul Barksdale d'Orr, bought a new car with which to cover his far flung territory this week, but only after he had convinced local rationer Shelby A. Cowart that his need of transportation was vital to the war effort. The car is a 1942 sedan, and will take the state rationer into districts which, he says, are not easily accessible with public transportation facilities.

Rev. Father Allan Prendergast, superior of the Passionist Monastery here which sends missionary priests to all parts of the state, also received a permit for the purchase of two 1942 sedans, to be used by members of the order in following their religious duties.

Increased activity at the rationing board was noted during June, according to the monthly report of Mr. Cowart. Permits were issued for the purchase of 30 retread tires to vital defense workers and few other qualified buyers. Orders for purchase of five new tires were issued to ministers and physicians and purchase of ten truck tires was approved for neighboring citrus grove owners and farmers.

Tire quota for this month is 41 retreads, four new passenger tires, four new tires for trucks and busses and four truck or bus retreads.

Former Councilman Sells Ice Business To Become Postman

Craig McLaughlin, former city police officer and Scoutmaster of Boy Scout Troop No. 1, who has recently been connected with a defense housing project near the coast, returned to Sierra Madre this week as owner of the Sierra Madre Ice Company. Former Councilman Thomas Miller who owned and operated the ice company for more than 15 years, recently took temporary work at the postoffice as substitute mail carrier. When he is not employed at the post office he will assist McLaughlin with ice deliveries.

For the present Mr. McLaughlin is in temporary residence with his mother, Mrs. J. H. Robertson, but within a few days he and Mrs. McLaughlin will establish their permanent residence here.

All-Stars Beat Army Team In Close Game

Sierra Madre's All-Star ball team won a hair raising contest from a soldier's team at the Arcadia Army camp Monday evening by a 3 to 2 score. It was a pitcher's duel in which Billy Kiggins for the locals was evenly matched by a rookie until Bob LaLone broke up the old ball game with a homer in the last inning, scoring the winning run.

Tonight the hometown boys again meet the Monrovia All-Stars on the grammar school diamond here and a large crowd is expected.

Nutrition Classes To Hold Sessions At Park House

Miss Helen C. Mansar, experienced teacher of nutrition, will open a 10-week nutrition course here Wednesday, July 22, at the Park House, from 10 a.m. until 12 noon. Succeeding classes will be held each Wednesday morning for the ten-week period, according to an announcement made yesterday by Mrs. John L. Woehler, canteen and nutrition chairman of the Sierra Madre Red Cross.

All women interested in the course are asked by Mrs. Woehler to report at Wednesday's meeting. Use of the Park House for this purpose was granted Tuesday evening by the city council.

USO Fund Campaign Will Be Continued

Local USO contributions still total considerably less than half of the quota set for Sierra Madre. However the drive will continue for some time according to Committee treasurer R. C. Lewis, who is outlining a canvass of the city.

Volunteers Needed For Great Drive

Collection Of Metal, Rubber And Grease For War Materials Opens Monday

Services of approximately 200 Sierra Madreans will be required in a salvage campaign, the success of which is vital to the National defense. Its primary purpose will be the collection of all kinds of metals and scrap to keep the blast furnaces of America turning out steel for munitions and mechanized war equipment, but to include also the salvaging of rubber, fats and rags.

Nucleus of the organization will be completed this week and the campaign will get underway a few days later. Unlike similar drives for the defense effort there is no fixed time for the duration of this one. It will continue systematically until the war ends and is termed by the government as of the utmost importance as the supply of materials is diminishing and the need for them increases as war production is stepped up.

Because an increasing number of men will be called to the colors within the next few months and millions of others will be drawn into war industries, the burden of this campaign will fall largely on the shoulders of women and they will predominate in the salvage organization.

Following appointment this week of a chairman and other officers of the salvage committee, block salvage wardens will be named for each city block and they will have lieutenants and other assistants throughout the city.

Salvage for Victory cards will be furnished every householder. On one side of the cards will appear instructions about collection of scrap metals and other materials—when to put them out and where, and the sort of scrap most desired. These cards, like ice cards, will be hung out on specified days by householders as notice that they have scrap to be carried away. Printing of the cards has been ordered.

Curb collections will be made weekly, trucks of the Good Will and the Salvation Army alternating in the work.

If you have been wondering what you can do, here is where you can be of real help in the war effort.

Can't Find Male Teacher For School

Possibility that the fall school term will open with a complete staff of women teachers at the grammar school is considered possible if Arthur Elliot is called for military service.

Gerald Smith, superintendent, reports increasing difficulty in securing a man teacher to replace Mr. Elliot on the staff and indicates that it may be impossible to do so.

Position of cafeteria manager also remains open at the school although there are several applicants for the work, according to Mr. Smith who states that women are still being interviewed. Applicants must understand nutrition and buying, must get on well with children and have home economics training, thought not necessarily a degree in home economics, he said.

Equipment Needed At First Aid Posts

WANTED—blankets and cot pads for sector First Aid posts, many of which are still not equipped to meet an emergency here. Residents able to contribute are asked to contact Red Cross headquarters, or Mrs. Carlin Smith at 4037.

Traffic Stops And Signs To Be Painted

Motor car drivers who have been complaining that the streets are obscurely marked for boulevard stops, cross walks and parking will no longer be confused as the city council has authorized Wm. Schwartz, street superintendent, to employ a contractor who submitted a price of $5 per hour for his equipment, himself and two men, the city to furnish the paint.

The Weather

Sheehan Returns From Hospital

Perley Poore Sheehan, Sierra Madre's nationally known author and scenarist whose widely read column The Watch Tower has been missing from The News for several weeks because of his serious illness, returned from the Huntington Memorial Hospital this week. He is now recuperating at home but for the present is unable to receive callers.

Speeders Are Rounded Up By Police

Twenty-One Citizens Draw Fines As Traffic Law Enforcement Drive Starts

Thirty-one Sierra Madreans, including many substantial citizens who forgot about the "not over 40" rule, have received traffic tickets since July 1, in an attempt by the police department to enforce city speed limits in the interest of rubber conservation and safety, and boulevard stops. Twenty-two citations have been given for failure to observe boulevard stops, with a subsequent fine of $5, while 13 speed violators have also appeared before Judge Thomas Neale. Some of this group also received citations for boulevard stop violations. Speeding fines are governed by the rate of excessive speed at which driver is traveling at the time of arrest.

Citations for the month to date have averaged more than two a day, and there is indication that the police department intends to enforce all traffic laws including parking regulations in Kersting Court and other thoroughfares.

LAST CHANCE

Today—July 16—is your last chance to register before the August primary election. You may have your name added to the eligible list at the city hall before 5 o'clock. Registrations taken now will also qualify voters for the November final and subsequent elections.

Your registration was cancelled if at both the Primary and the General Elections in 1940 you failed to vote.

If you voted at either one of these elections in 1940, your registration remains in force unless you have since moved and have failed to re-register.

You can register if you are a citizen, 21 years of age; and if you have been a resident of the State for one year and of your county for 90 days prior to August 25.

May Abate Sewage Danger At Santa Anita Jap Camp

Hope that a solution of the sanitation problems resulting from internment of Japanese at Santa Anita Park was seen by Supervisor William A. Smith yesterday when he stated that the Federal Government has instituted an act to abate the danger. An action to have the Superior Court set a rental figure for a year's leasehold on the property. "If the Federal Government anticipates retaining possession of the race track property for a year, it is likely some action will be taken by the government to solve the sewage problem resulting from the internment of the Japanese," Supervisor Smith said. "The condition as it exists at present is very unsanitary and should be corrected without delay."

Cub Scout Teams In Slugging Contest

Boys of Sierra Madre's Cub Scout Pack, bowed to the prowess of a rival Pack from Los Angeles Sunday in a lively 7-inning baseball game at the grammar school ball field. With the balance of experience and practice on their side the Angelenos won by a 19-13 score.

Don Lee Springer pitched for Sierra Madre and Paul Worthington went in as catcher. Other players were George Whitley, 1b, Eugene Maloney, ss; Robert Davidson, 2b; Lawrence Heasley, 3b; Ronald McMillan, rf; Jimmy Spears, lf; Richard Kinney, cf; and Joe Davis, substitute. W. F. Maloney acted as umpire. A return game with the winners is tentatively being arranged for a future date by Clarence Hunt-singer, Earl Toms, Cub master; and S. E. Peterson, committee chairman.

Citizens Are Urged To Prepare Now To Care For Dead And Injured

"War is hell, and enemy attacks on California cities could cause an untold number of deaths..."

"We must face realities and prepare to handle mass fatalities after an enemy raid."

This was the grim warning sounded in a bulletin by the State Council of Defense, received here yesterday by the Sierra Madre Defense Council admonishing city and county defense agencies to speedily form plans for the proper and orderly care and handling of bodies of war victims.

"It is unpleasant to contemplate, but we must face eventualities," the sombre directive stated. "When disaster strikes, there will be casualties—deaths. We must face cold facts and realities. War is a gruesome business. Therefore we must prepare now. These plans must be formulated by all defense agencies."

"During an enemy attack, we must be ready to immediately care for the wounded or injured, the victims of bullets, shrapnel or falling debris. After the incident, we must promptly and properly care for the dead."

The agency advised the chiefs of emergency medical services of city and county defense bodies to consult with their medical examiners, coroner, sheriff, health officers and representatives of morticians groups in formulating plans for dealing with mass fatalities.

Froehlich Named To Direct Volunteer Service Activities

Councilman John "Pop" Froehlich was appointed executive director of the U.S. Citizens Service Corps by Mayor Thomas Schwartz, chairman of the Defense Council, at a meeting of the council held last night.

Mr. Froehlich, who has been a member of the city council for the last six years, will assume the responsibility of directing all volunteer work "contributing to the war effort" exclusive of actual defense work which comes under the jurisdiction of the U.S. Citizens Defense Corps of which Mayor Schwartz is chairman.

City Insures Its Properties Against All War Damage

War damage insurance to protect the city against financial loss should city owned buildings, utilities or equipment, exclusive of water mains, be damaged through enemy action, was approved by the city council Tuesday evening. The policy as outlined by Miner Harkness will give the city adequate compensation at a cost of approximately $152.38 a year.

Official appointment of Charles Garrick as special police officer at 60 per hour was made. Garrick, a Pasadenaan, formerly attached to the Sheriff's office, is working as relief officer during vacations of regulars.

The council also approved a $5000 bond to cover Marie Schiltz in her combined duties of book-keeper-stenographer, cashier and deputy city clerk until June 26, 1943.

ORGANIZATION OF TWO NEW DEFENSE CORPS CALLED FOR

To further clarify specific functions of various units which have been formed in accordance with the program of the Office of Civilian Defense, two distinct corps, the U. S. Citizens Defense Corps and the U. S. Citizens Service Corps have been set up by the OCD.

So that all Sierra Madreans may have a clearer understanding of these units, the NEWS is publishing official bulletins released by James C. Sheppard, director of the Ninth Civilian Defense Region, Office of Civilian Defense, and submitted by Mayor Thomas Schwartz.

The bulletin below covers the general organization of, and requirements for membership in the U. S. Citizens Defense Corps in which Sierra Madre has accepted the "basic standards and procedures as prescribed." The official bulletin on the U. S. Citizens Service Corps will appear in next weeks issue of the NEWS. UNITED STATES CITIZENS DEFENSE CORPS

There is formally created within the Office of Civilian Defense, by Administrative Order No. 23 and Operations Letter No. 34, the United States Citizens Defense Corps. With a view to achieving uniformity throughout the country in the protective service, Regulations No. 3 prescribes standards and procedures for membership in the United States Citizens Defense Corps. It is recognized that any community when authorized by State and local law, may establish its protective services along different lines; however, in any such case its Defense Corps will not be an integral part of the United States Citizens Defense Corps of the Office of Civilian Defense, and its members will not be entitled to wear or use prescribed insignia of

Bailey Canyon Now Closed To Hikers

Bailey Canyon, city owned mountain retreat which is one of the favorite hiking spots near town, was officially closed to all trespassers this week by the city council. This action was in accord with the policy of the U. S. Forest Service, which placed a general closure on most of the Angeles Forest several weeks ago.

Grease The Skids Under The Axis

Uncle Sam wants grease, real grease from kitchens in millions of homes, to grease the skids of the Axis. Waste fats and grease that crackle and pop on the gridle or the roasting pan, can really produce thunderous volleys when munitions plants put them use in the making of high explosives.

In pre-Pearl Harbor days, vegetable oils imported from areas in grip of the Axis, provided America's high explosives industry with essential oil ingredients. But today Uncle Sam is turning to use in the making of high explosive domestic waste fats and grease. Poured into tin cans and taken to the neighborhood butcher, they'll help you provide the herewithal to keep the griddle hot for the Nippon.

If waste fat will keep the enemy's fat in the fire, and waste grease will help grease the enemy's road to defeat, America's support is as good as assured. Aren't we out to roast the Axis?

Since going to the Monrovia office of the Edison Company, Mr. Gray has held offices in the Masonic Lodge, and is now a director of the Monrovia Junior Chamber of Commerce, and is affiliated with the Baptist church of that city.

Hobbies enjoyed by Mr. Grey, his wife and daughter Charleen, 7, include music and gardening. Mrs. Grey is an accomplished pianist and is a product of the Olga Steeb Piano school. Mr. Grey plays woodwinds and has been a member of the Pasadena Civic Orchestra.

MRS. ELIZ. BUCKWALTER

Mrs. Elizabeth Buckwalter, 80, distant cousin of Mrs. Lida Grant, passed away Sunday at the Methodist Hospital in Los Angeles. Funeral services were conducted at Grant Chapel Tuesday, with Dr. Arthur O. Pritchard officiating.

Mrs. Buckwalter was well known in this community and for 25 years had made her home in Southern California. She was prominently associated with foreign missions of the Methodist Church, having spent 35 years in mission work in Africa.

She is survived by a brother, W. B. McNeil of Sunnyvale, Calif., and an adopted daughter, Mrs. Diana McNeil Pierson of Willey College, Marshall, Texas.

Mrs. Pierson, who arrived for the service, is the daughter of a native African woman rescued from a tribal priest by Mrs. Buckwalter. In gratitude for saving her life, the woman gave her infant daughter to Mrs. Buckwalter. Returning to this country, the missionary placed her adopted daughter in modern American schools and today with a master's degree, she is a valued member of the staff of Willey College where she is head of the English department.

Instructions In War Aid To Be Given By Red Cross

A course in disaster case work and civilian war aid will be given under the direction of the Red Cross at local headquarters Friday by Mrs. Helen Churchward, trained social worker, who is being sent here to further increase the efficiency of the local emergency set up.

The course will cover casework procedures in the emergency period during enemy action and natural disaster for which the Red Cross is definitely responsible, and will be for all members of the registration, information and welfare committees, the chapter home service and the public welfare casework staff.

Exact time of the meeting has not been set, but this information will be available at headquarters this afternoon.

Refuse Permit For Bee Hives On City Owned Property

No bees will swarm around hives on the city owned water and in this community as the city council has refused a request from John Gooden for permission to place 20 hives there. Granting the request would be inconsistent with the city's policy of prohibiting trespassing on municipal property, it was said.

The council also denied a request from owners of Mt. Gardens asking permission to place a directional sign at the corner of Baldwin and Grand View avenues, and on the south side of Grand View at the southern end of Sycamore Place. While the request was denied because it would violate provisions of the zoning ordinance, Wm. Schwartz, street superintendent, was instructed to proceed with the work of adjusting the street numbers on Sycamore place, which for the most part are incorrect.

OFF TO SEE BROTHERS ENTER U. S. SERVICES

Harold Spears, well known local building contractor, left Saturday for New York where he will see two brothers enter the government service this week.

As It Appears To me

It seems that this is a good week to talk informally about some of the villagers. Grace Nord, daughter of the Henry Nords, has been in my mind for weeks and no doubt should be known a bit better in her own town. Not so long ago Miss Nord was just another gangling school girl going in for drama at PJC. Today she is a charming, poised young modern whose understanding of the value of restraint seems inherent, and is possibly ready for a take off which will be the beginning of fine work in radio dramatics or the theatre.

During the school year she found time—in addition to her regular studies—to write and produce an original radio script, appear in several radio dramas and at the close of the school year surprised everyone—and probably herself—with her characterization of Ellen Dean in Wuthering Heights, the final PJC Workshop project. It will be interesting to watch the development of her career, and many of us might enjoy seeing her appear locally. We can't let it be said that this young artist goes unrecognized in her home town.

Some evening around sundown if you walk to the north end of Sunnyside ave., turn east and stroll into the Star Nursery grounds, you will probably find Walt Lee bringing the Sierra Madres down to a broad sweep of canvass, and if you stay around long enough you will hear some grand yarns. Lee began painting years ago in Los Angeles, went into newspaper work, knows all there is to know about newspaper art departments, and also about the general business of reporting.

Henry Hawthurst was number one man for the Times, doing some of his famous reputation shatters when Lee was just beginning work on the same paper. Today they are both Sierra Madres. For the present Lee is on leave from routine newspaper work and by way of relaxing is official caretaker of the Boddy camellias which are still growing here. In off moments he writes Westerns—which sell, and to while away additional time, paints landscapes. Someone has a new home—drives up and says "Walt, one of your paintings would look swell over my fireplace," and in due time a bit of the Sierra Madre foothills has come into his home. With Lee, whose career has included teaching at the Chouinard Art School, it is just relaxation, but he will also confess that this part of the country has "got him." I promise a really fine evening when you visit him.

Speaking of Camellias reminds me of all of the things I haven't written about Lee and Willard McCarty who are now growing some of the rarest types on their home place, 309 E. Sierra Madre Blvd. For some reason the Gods seem to have almost provident when passing out talent to the McCartys. After or maybe before graduating from U. S. C. with a degree in horticulture, Lee McCarty played drums with Paul Whitman's orchestra, later traveled with the Boswell sisters. In his spare time he painted. Then one day he went to Laguna Beach to visit an artist, started home with a piece of clay in his hands and by the time he arrived had molded—for the first time in his life—a small figure. If you have been reading the NEWS you know what he is doing with that talent today.

Willard McCarty, more quiet, almost reticent in his manner, is also a graduate horticulturist, has been playing the piano ever since Lee can remember, and just to keep things from becoming too dull, is an accountant on the side. So you see several of the Gods must have smiled at the same time when these McCartys decided to do a turn on earth, or maybe it was just a Leprechaun who brushed by at that moment. However, today their combined profession is horticulture, and specifically camellias and mystery gardenias, 7000 and 1000 plants respectively. Many of the Camellias they brought here from Louisiana and Alabama. They are growing their plants for stock and will be grafting some of the finer varieties on older sturdy stock. Among their collection is the prized Laurel Leaf, the Snowdrift, whose huge pure white blossoms measure 8 inches in diameter; Blood of China, Purple Emperor and Governor Moulton. Recently just because time was hanging heavy, with practically nothing to keep him busy, Willard took over the liquidating of neighboring Japanese Nursery stock, netting more than twice the figure for which the owners had expected to sell. It appears that the Irish do get around.

—Margaret Eliason.

KEEPING
WITH THE JONES'S

War is sweeping aside foolish notions and silly ideas, such as "keeping up" with the neighbors. Last year's suit or dress is no longer a badge of poverty but of Patriotism. Americans everywhere are facing the fact, realistically, that there are more important uses for money, such as buying War Bonds, paying taxes and building a reserve fund for the post-war period. Incidentally, a bank account here can help you do all three of these things.

Save the vitamins you buy with controlled gas cooking

FOR MEATS: Roast at low temperature. This reduces shrinkage as much as 20% and helps retain vitamin-rich juices and minerals. Broiling, as a rule, is preferable to frying, to retain vitamins.

FOR VEGETABLES: Use very little water. When water is essential, have it boiling first. Set gas flame to simmer heat and cook for the shortest time possible, avoiding unnecessary stirring and keeping utensils tightly covered. Don't put in baking soda to brighten vegetables. And remember—keep the liquids for use in soups and sauces.

IN GENERAL: Keep foods as fresh as possible, using dependable refrigeration. And be sure to serve foods soon after cooking.

WE CAN ALL HELP

One of the most vital factors of our war effort is manpower. In addition to the hundreds of thousands of men that are needed by the armed forces to fly the planes, man the tanks, sail the ships, shoot the guns, and perform the innumerable duties that are necessary to an efficient striking force, there are other millions of men needed in the war industries to provide the fighters with the tools of war. After these needs have been filled from the nation's reservoir of manpower, the "home front" must be served.

But there are not sufficient men left to do all the necessary work on farms, in factories, and in the stores. Women have taken on some of the jobs formerly held by men. Also, it has been found necessary to move many of the men left in civilian life from their regular work to new duties. As a result, there are probably more people working at jobs with which they are not entirely familiar than at any time in our country's history.

Most types of work carry along at an even pace all day long, and a person who is learning a new routine has no unusual demand placed on his ability at any one time during the day. This is not true, however, in retail stores. Rush periods occur late in the day and late in the week in practically all retail establishments. The shopping habits of the American people must be met by the employees of these stores, whether they are experienced salespeople or not. And the new employees are doing their best to do just that. But if they fail, the retail store must hire additional help. And extra employees must be taken from the already strained reserve of manpower. Men and women who could be making greater contribution to the war effort.

In the solution of the problem, we can all help. The best way to relieve rush periods in stores is to buy at times when the stores are not busy. Best hours to shop are 10 a.m. till 2 p.m. The best days are Mondays, Tuesdays, and Wednesdays.

An early shopper enjoys advantages, too. Selection is better early in the day, and service is much faster before the stores become crowded. Can you be counted on to give additional aid to the Victory program by shopping early in the week and early in the day?

What They Say ---

Mary Martin, Hollywood radio star, found riding a bus to studio — "Say—I rode the bus to work a few years ago because it was either that or walk. I guess it won't hurt me to ride it now to save the country some rubber."

Earl Warren — "I believe that any boy that has not had a paper route or who has not grabbed a roll of papers from a train or truck, and hurried to sell them while the news is still hot has missed a grand, human experience."

Mrs. Joseph W. Forster, State Pres., American Legion Aux. — "The franchise is a privilege—but a privilege that can be lost through lack of use. It must be preserved for the men who are now fighting for our right to vote."

Chinese Consul T. K. Chang, in L. A. — "Give China the arms she lacks. Our soldiers know how to die bravely. If they must die, let them die for victory."

"Bill" Burr Assigned To Indio Army Camp

William L. Burr, until recently Sierra Madre agent for the Southern California Edison Co., has been assigned to the Indio Desert Training Center as an assistant field director for the American Red Cross, it was announced yesterday by the area office. His wife, Mrs. Elizabeth Burr, and two sons, William and John, are still residing here.

His Red Cross assignment with the military will involve handling scores of human problems, including working with enlisted men to solve their welfare needs, investigating furlough requests in cooperation with Red Cross chapters in the men's home communities, obtaining recreational and other equipment frequently requested by commanding officers for their men, and making loans for emergency furloughs after they have been granted by the army.

By LEONE BAXTER

Midwest States report a steady dwindling of population — into the armed forces, into the shipyards, and into the wide-spread war plants of the nation.

As an industrial nerve center of the war effort, how has that exodus from the farm States affected California? What share of those workers are new citizens here?

A survey of the field, county by county, recently completed by the State Chamber of Commerce, reveals that 15 farming and mining counties have experienced a decrease in population, too. Small counties in the main, the losses average as high as 15 per cent.

But in 43 other counties, the population has catapulted ahead of all obstacles. Increases range from less than one to as high as 44 per cent. The average is 8 per cent increase!

At first blush, you'd think such a zoom in the population obviously would create sharp and sudden changes both economically and politically. That such a huge infiltration of men and women whose interests are centered on their war jobs rather than on California as a place to settle and rear their families, would leave its indelible mark across the State. That in an election year, California would be certain to feel the curious effect of hundreds of thousands of brand new voters—strangers in the land. But that, it appears, won't happen here. At least, not this year.

Why? Because the new voters just didn't register. Not in numbers sufficient to make their numerical presence keenly felt at the ballot box. As a matter of fact, latest figures, released shortly before the registration offices closed, revealed, in spite of the tremendous population increase, a general decrease of over 15 per cent!

Many of the newcomers who haven't registered are in the armed services and have no way of knowing whether they'll be in California or China, Egypt or Ireland on election day. Others, investigation shows, prefer to forego their right of franchise rather than endanger their pensions and relief status in their home States, where they still maintain nominal residence. Other new citizens didn't register for the same lame reasons a lot of old citizens didn't.

So, unless the determined registration drive that many public organizations have made in recent weeks has had a more telling effect than it off times has on native Californians—the pressure of this State's new multitudes will be felt but lightly at the ballot box, come August 25.

MARCH OF RIMES

By H. F. NOAXE

REMEMBER?

There's one particular evening which married men never forget, recalled by many with pleasure, by others with wholesome regret. It's the night a fellow proposes, and quite an important affair, considering all of the freedom a bachelor's pledged to forswear. Remember those hours of preparing, a shine, a shave and shampoo, which suit would appeal to milady, the homespun, the brown or the blue? A session with Emil, the florist, consumed a precious half hour because you couldn't remember just which was her favorite flower. Then, off to her home, heart a thumping, her answer, ah what would it be, who else might be trying to win her, would mama and papa agree? Down went the lights in the parlor and up came a lump in your throat, a futile attempt to start pitching, enough to get any guy's goat. Well, that's about all there was to it, an evening of needless distress, not knowing a girl's intuition takes care of that coveted yes.

The lights in the parlor and up came a lump in your throat, a futile attempt to start pitching, enough to get any guy's goat. Well, that's about all there was to it, an evening of needless distress, not knowing a girl's intuition takes care of that coveted yes.

Recording disc manufacturers feared they might have to cease operations when civilian use of aluminum was banned. Now they use glass coated with lacquer, and are well satisfied.

Sentencing of four tire thieves to San Quentin in the past few days gives stern judicial emphasis to the gravity of the rubber crisis.

That celebrated and anguished plea, "My kingdom for a horse!" eloquent testimony, certainly, to man's plight when bereft of means of transportation—finds an echo today in the just alarms arising from the tire shortage. The severe penalties for tire theft being meted out in California and other states reflected, clearly as any dossier of statistics, the public's dependence on rubber-tired transportation. The despised horse thief of the pioneer era, of whom frontier justice frequently exacted the supreme penalty, has his counterpart to today's tire thief, judging by the rigorous penalties newly decreed by state legislatures.

Mississippi has declared such theft a grand larceny. In Illinois and South Carolina, it is now possible to send a tire thief to prison for ten years, and in Massachusetts, for five years; Virginia has decreed penitentiary sentences of from one to ten years, while Rhode Island has provided fines ranging up to $1,000 as well as imprisonment up to three years. Rob a man of the means of getting to his job, and you've stripped him of his livelihood. American justice is fitting the punishment to the crime.

With Germany still maintaining her tight grip on the whole continent of Europe, and her armies driving deeply toward the rich oil lands of the Caucasus; with Japan in full control of the Philippines and the priceless resources of the East Indies and southeastern Asia; with the Allies having yet to wrest a single square inch of territory in German-held Europe or regain from Japan the territory she has seized since December—in the face of this situation the chairman of the House Military Affairs committee says he foresees a possible end to the war this year through a United Nations victory! Sounds like an echo of that same false optimism which once said, "What? Japan attack the United States? Nonsense! She wouldn't dare!"

Definitely, the bicycle has arrived. The nation's underwriters are now drafting policies providing personal and property damage insurance to bicycle owners, clear proof the humble bike has reached big-time status.

The demand for vitamins to enrich vital foods such as bread and milk, and the regular distribution of vitamin capsules among war industry workers and the armed forces, have opened a new era in better nutrition. No longer is the vitamin capsule the rare and costly article it once was. Vastly increased production of synthetic vitamins, which have all the properties of natural vitamins, has sounded the death knell to the one-time scarcity of these substances. When Vitamin C first became commercially available just eight years ago it cost $213 an ounce; today it costs $1.65 an ounce. When Vitamin B1 was isolated as a natural product in 1935 it cost $300 per gram; in 1937 the development of synthetic B1 sent the price tumbling to $7.50. Today its cost has fallen to 53 cent a gram. This is but new proof for the well-established fact that large-scale production to make products available to all, is a pow-

WILL CALIFORNIA CONTINUE AS GREAT INDUSTRIAL STATE WHEN WAR IS ENDED?

By RALPH H. TAYLOR
(Executive Secretary, Agricultural Council of California)

In war-time, changes occur which, in normal times, would make Page 1 headlines, but which are hardly noted, or at least little considered, when interest is centered on the war effort.

Such a change has "happened here," and while the public in a vague way undoubtedly knows about it, few have stopped to ponder what it will mean to the California of tomorrow.

The untold—or at least undigested—story is simply this: California, during the past 12 months, has gained in population nearly a MILLION new residents. The defense worker migration to this State has outstripped anything that happened in "the days of gold," or in the drab days which came after the Dust Bowl.

Conservatively, 800,000 persons have moved into the State since the war production program was inaugurated, aside from the military. Probably, the figure is nearer a million. In ordinary times, every Chamber of Commerce in the State would be bragging about it; the All-Year Club and Californians, Inc., would be devoting three-color pamphlets to it; legislative committees would be resolving about it—and the real estate industry would have the welcome sign hung on every lamp post.

But because the national emergency has over-shadowed all other events, the evolutionary and revolutionary changes in California have received scant attention, even from our boost-bodies. Yet much of this new population will undoubtedly remain after the war is over—and California, for better or worse, has permanently changed status during the war period. It has become one of the top-ranking industrial States in the Union.

A decade ago, California was in 17th place among the industrial States, a year or two ago it had climbed to 7th place. Today, it is one of the biggest industrial States in the whole country. Today, it has undertaken the tremendous job of producing more than one-tenth of all the war materials which the country needs for victory. Yet it has little more than one-twentieth of the nation's total manpower, even with its recent phenomenal gains in population.

What will happen after the war is over? Will the great manufacturing and industrial concerns dismantle their plants here and return, bag and baggage, to Chicago, Pittsburgh, New York, or the old industrial centers of the New England States? Or will California retain, in peace time, the industrial leadership which it attained in war?

Will California be able to absorb into its peace-time economy the million new citizens who have come here to build ships and aircraft and other war equipment? Or will tens of thousands of them, thrown out of employment by shut-downs in war industries, go on the relief rolls and become a semi-permanent charge against the taxpayers?

The question is of vital importance to the whole State. But in this writer's opinion, California, if its leaders have the necessary foresight and vision, will retain its newly-won industrial leadership. A vast reservoir of power and raw materials is here to make this State an ideal location for big industries; there is an ideal workers' climate here; there are shipping facilities near at hand, to tap the new markets which will undoubtedly be opened up in the Pacific.

Civilian Defense Plans Here Ahead Of Eastern Towns

Rev. Frederick Groetsema, who returned Friday with his wife and children from a five week visit in the East and Middle West, stated this week that in no community visited by him did he find such adequate preparation in Civilian Defense as there is here, and added that they were glad to be back in Sierra Madre.

During the time they were gone the Groetsemas visited her parents, Rev. and Mrs. O. J. Scheibe of Gray's Lake, Ill., attended a Groetsema family reunion in Chicago, and joined Rudolph Hartman at the National Council of Congregational and Christian Churches at the University of New Hampshire. They also visited in Hartford, Conn., where Rev. Groetsema delivered a sermon at the Asylum Hill Church for his brother-in-law, Dr. David McKeith.

Scouts Distribute Information On Price Ceilings

In accordance with the request from the Federal Government and the Office of Civilian Defense that the Boy Scouts of America distribute pamphlets on price control, local Scouts began the work this week under the direction of Daniel Rauscher, Scoutmaster of Troop 2.

Mr. Rauscher has placed George Shipway, junior assistant scoutmaster of troop No. 1, in charge of circulating the southern section of the city, while troop 2 will cover the northern section. Requesting the cooperation of residents, Mr. Rauscher asks that he be notified if a copy of the price control bulletin has not been received by July 18.

The bulletin, issued by the Office of Price Administration, presents in simple streamlined form those sections of the Price Control act which directly involve the retail consumer.

Articles which do and do not have price ceilings are listed and general instructions given.

Growers May Sell Products At Stands

Property owners in unincorporated areas of the county will, hereafter, be able to sell produce they grow on their own property from roadside stands on their property without payment of a county license fee. County Supervisor Smith at a session of the Supervisors this week moved that the license ordinance be amended to make this possible.

SWIFTS BACK HOME; GUIGNETS TO REMAIN

Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Swift who have been living on North Fair Oaks in Pasadena, are now back in their home at 155 North Baldwin avenue, which was occupied until recently by Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Guignet. The Guignets have moved into the Creighton home at 169 North Baldwin where they will spend the summer. Owing to the prolonged illness of Mr. Guignet they will not make their accustomed summer trip East.

County Asked For $3,384 Tax Money

In an attempt to further increase the efficient operation of the Defense Council Control Board, Mayor Thomas Schwartz has been authorized by the city council to rearrange the telephone system and complete blacking out of headquarters.

The council also approved an additional $10 pay for Ernie Mohler, who is relieving J. C. Lauber at the city park for two weeks. A request for a loading zone was referred to the city attorney. The county health contract for the year 1942-43 was approved.

Wm. Schwartz was instructed to prepare a resolution to request payment from Los Angeles County of the available gas tax allocation which for the year 1942-43 amounts to $3,384.74.

RIOTOUS COMEDY AT THE PLAYHOUSE

It's not only the Army that travels on its stomach but Americans in general, according to Playwright Clare Kummer, for she broke all the scribbling rules by making the kitchen the most important place in the house in "Good Gracious, Annabelle," famous comedy which comes to Pasadena Community Playhouse July 20-25 as the fifth play in the current Midsummer Drama Festival comedy series.

"Captain Jinks of the Horse Marines" completes its Festival run at the Playhouse Saturday.

FIRE FLAMES By One of the Boys

No fires to report since the last meeting, indicates that our citizens are still being careful. In the midst of this extra hazardous season, it is good to be mindful of the danger when an attempt is made to dispose of rubbish by burning. A permit must be obtained from the fire chief before burning in the open. After permission is given, it is good policy to make certain that plenty of clearance is made around the selected spot within distance of water from a hose. Do not wait until the fire has gotten beyond control before applying water. And do not wait before calling the fire department, if there is danger of the fire getting beyond control. It is better to have called and the firemen arrive than have a fire for them to put out when they get there. We do get a "kick" out of fighting fire, but we would rather retain the present low fire loss and consequent low insurance rates.

Our fire plugs about the city were painted by "Pinkie" Udell. The aluminum tint brings them out where they can be seen, especially in a blackout, and how they glisten.

Lieut. Robert Hurt Wins Promotion

Announcement has been made by Maj. Gen. George Grunert, commanding general of the Sixth Corp Area, that Second Lt. Robert G. Hurt has been assigned and subsequently entered the Adjutant General's office of that area in Chicago, Ill.

Lt. Hurt is the son of Dr. and Mrs. L. M. Hurt of 721 West Orange Grove avenue. Following his graduation from USC he entered the employ of the May Co. in the personnel department. As an Army selectee he was sent to Camp Roberts in March 1941 subsequently entered the Adjutant General department's school for personnel classification officers at Fort Washington, Md., from which he graduated.

To Build 1000 Homes In Six Months

John H. Robertson, superintendent of defense construction for the U. S. Government, is now employed in Portland, Ore., and Vancouver, Wash., where he is to build houses for the shipyard workers. The project on which he is engaged called for construction of a thousand dwellings in six months.

Take Horses Along On Fishing Trip

Taking with them four horses that rode comfortably in trailers, Wesley Perry, Russell Heasley, and Jim Heasley, Jr., set out Saturday night for a 10-day vacation in the High Sierras. From Kings Canyon they plan to pack back 40 miles to the head of the Kern River where they expect to find good fishing.

Bulb Authority To Speak At Dinner

The Pacific Rose Society is taking reservations for the annual barbecued steak dinner to be held at 5:30 p.m. Saturday, July 18, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wynn B. Norton, 425 East Las Flores Drive, Altadena. Principal speaker on the program will be A. J. W. Peters, who will speak on "Bulbs and what to do generally in the Garden." Ernest Williams of South Pasadena will show his famous pictures of flowers taken in Europe and America.

Anyone who wishes may attend. Reservations may be made by phoning Karl W. Somers, Atlantic 1-2005.

Side Glances and Soliloquies

by Libby Trimble

A salute to Barbara Heasley, former Jr. Woman's Club prexy, as the first feminine gasoline station attendant in town. She looks plenty cute in her little blue overalls even if they aren't the coolest things she could find to wear. Practicality and capability come first these days. Women doing war work seem to manage the art of looking well even when they're engaged at hard labor. It all goes to show that women can take it and still manage their make-up.

Came in today and found Margaret and Clarence Huntsinger looking both grim and worried. Seems they were fighting the war right here in Sierra Madre and the Japs were putting up a good scrap and doing a neat job of breaking through the weak spots in our defense system. From their expressions I gathered they were almost down to a hand to hand struggle. Anyway, Clarence vows that the next time he comes in to talk to Margaret he's going to bring his shotgun.

Will myseries never cease? Lee Shippey strolled in looking happy and pleased with life, back from a vacation in Yosemite and the Sequoias, where he had a swell time. But... he was smoking Mexican cigarettes and he faded out before we had time to question him. Could it be that he took the long way home, via Tijuana and Ensenada?

Jim Irvine, owner of the Wistaria Grill, has found that the need for men in defense work is really acute. He drove to Long Beach with a friend one morning last week to look over the rapid expansion of the Cal-Ship-building plant. He called Vera, his wife, in the afternoon and asked her to meet him at 4 o'clock. He had been offered and had accepted a position as plant superintendent. Sounds as if they really mean business.

Rev. Mr. Grotsema says it's a funny feeling to drive up to a gasoline station and have the attendant tell you he's sorry but he hasn't any more gasoline. It happened to him when he was in the East. Another reason I suppose for liking the West Coast better... but according to reports it won't be long. So hang on to your hats everybody, we're going to take it whether we like it or not.

Shortage Of Men At Postoffice Is Relieved By Woman

Bill Jenkins, air-minded mail carrier, left his duties at the post office this week for a three-week vacation which will probably include many hours of flying.

Porter Byrne, postal employee who has been confined at home for several weeks with a bronchial ailment, is improving and will probably return to work within a week. To relieve the pressure of work created by Mr. Byrne's illness Mrs. Ruth Passagage has been assisting part time at the postoffice.

WINS A VACATION

Jim Vernon, 15-year old newsboy, who since the rubber shortage developed has been delivering papers by bicycle about town, is enjoying a week's vacation in Yosemite as the winner of a circulation contest.

Mrs. Art Evans came in from their home in Lancaster Monday to visit some of her many friends here. Though the family still consider themselves Sierra Madrens they feel that after seven years on the desert they are fixtures there, and like it a lot.

AUXILIARY POLICE

They'll guard us well!

We will need their help many times and in many ways before this war is won. Whether it is keeping roads clear for essential traffic... whether it is guarding vital points and preventing sabotage... or whether it is stopping little girls' tears... we can depend on the auxiliary police. They're our neighbors... They'll guard us well.
